Reggie with a star struck Elizabeth

Gamsky Fellows Elizabeth and Collin with THE Dr. Neal Gamsky

Meet the Gamsky!

Hello! My name is Elizabeth Keating and I am the 2015 – 2017 Gamsky Fellow! Though I was born and raised in New Fairfield, Connecticut, I am a recent graduate of the University of Delaware. In my time at UD I was involved in a number of student organizations on campus (no surprise!) some of which included the Resident Student Association, the National Residence Hall Honorary, Delta Gamma Fraternity, and a position as a Resident Assistant. My love for housing and student programming led me to a summer ACUHO-I internship at Brown University. It was at Brown University that I first heard of Illinois State University's College Student Personnel Administration Program! CSPA program alums

Anna Knepler '15, and Skylar Guimond '15, were both working their summer practicum for the Summer@Brown Pre-College Program and encouraged me to research ISU's CSPA program! I knew I wanted to pursue a degree in Student Affairs and fell in love with the many opportunities for professional experience, the invested faculty, and the strong network of alumni, ISU's program offered! The familial atmosphere was infectious. Working with Dr. Phyllis in this position has been an invaluable opportunity and has prepared me to continue on in my student affairs career!

Student Affairs 101

By Josh Marron

One of the highlights to being a part of the CSPA program thus far was the opportunity to attend, present and recruit at the Student Affairs 101 (SA 101) conference during the fall semester. Eight students in the program traveled to Eastern Illinois University with Dr. Phyllis for the conference. This one-day conference serves as an opportunity for prospective undergraduate students considering Higher Ed Administration to network with current graduate students, staff and faculty members from a myriad of institutions. The host site for the conference rotates amongst Illinois State University, Eastern Illinois University and Western Illinois University.

There are a variety of sessions available for attendees throughout the day. Some sessions tailor their content specifically to one of the three key attendee demographics (undergraduates, graduate students and full time employees). Presenters of sessions have the option to classify their segment to an audience of all three groups of attendees. I chose to present and prepare a visually engaging Prezi on the benefits of mindfulness and opened my session to all attendees. I find the act of mindfulness meditation to be a beneficial practice for professionals at all walks of life as we juggle many demands that stem from our daily stressors. Throughout the session I shared tips for affective mindfulness activity, different types of mindfulness meditations, engaged in a fifteen minute guided mindfulness session, and provided handouts for future reference. The intent of this session was to assist individuals in their self-care journey.

During the provided lunch of the conference Willie Banks, the Vice

The Administrator 10

President of Student Affairs at Indiana State University, delivered the keynote. Willie Banks talked to us about his journey through the profession as a male of color and the different trials he faced throughout his career to date. Afterward, we were able to meet Willie and network more. While the main purpose of the conference is to connect undergraduate students with the field of student affairs, there are countless opportunities for graduate students to network with professionals and other graduate students. I personally found it very beneficial to interact with second year graduate students at other universities who provided insight about their summer practicum experience and how to navigate the NODA and ACUHO-I process. I directly applied their advice to my search and am very enthused to work with UC San Diego's Residential Life Summer Academic programs this summer!

Once the afternoon sessions wrapped up, attendees were able to sit in on a panel discussion of graduate students, staff and faculty members. The recruitment fair directly followed the panel. Dr. Phyllis and all of us attending represented the program at our table display and engaged with prospective students sharing their stories and aspirations for joining the field. I had a remarkable experience with this conference and highly recommend your involvement!

GRAD Days

Another year witnessed another successful GRAD days! We were fortunate enough to invite about thirty-three prospective students to ISU's campus! One travelling from as far as Miami, Florida! These students were given tours of the three campuses in the area, Heartland Community College, Illinois Wesleyan University, and Illinois State University. Following dinner and a meet and greet with employers, students were invited to participate in a student social where teams (made up of current CSPAG students and our prospective students) competed against one another in ten rounds of trivia! The night was filled with food, fun, and great conversation! The class for fall of 2016 looks promising!

NASPA 2016

By: Joanna Rose – Gross

Professional development was a large part of March for many student affairs professionals. This year, a large group of current CSPA students, alumni, and friends attended the NASPA annual conference in Indianapolis. We were fortunate enough to send 18 current students who were fully funded by the ISU Student Government Association. This was thanks to the hard work put forth by the CSPAG e-board to create and defend a proposal for the money through the Student Government Association Fee Board.

Those in attendance had the opportunity to learn from their colleagues in the field while also exploring the city of Indianapolis. One of the highlights of the conference was the Opening Ceremony, held in the famous Lucas Oil Stadium where the Indianapolis Colts play. The NASPA conference ran congruently to the Big 10 men's basketball finals in Indy, so many of their fans could be seen walking the streets to support and hopefully see their team make it to the end. It was even rumored that some of our CSPA students had a sighting of members of the Boston Celtics basketball team.

All ISU Alums present at the Redbird Social

Our CSPA program was also represented through conference presentations. Dr. Phyllis McCluskey-Titus co-presented a session titled, “Using Creative and Innovative Practices to Inform Teaching and Practice” with Colin Stewart, Director of Student Activities and Illinois Wesleyan University and current doctoral student. She also co-presented a session titled, “Serendipitous Development: Assessing Value Added Outcomes of Student Affairs Operations, Programs and Services” with Dr. Matthew Damschroder, Assistant Dean of Students at Illinois Wesleyan University and current co-instructor for EAF 463: College Students and their Cultures.

On the last night of NASPA, Illinois State University hosted a lovely reception, thanks to the hard work of Dr. Erin Thomas, Director of Assessment and Engagement Initiatives in the Division of Student Affairs and the financial support of Dr. Brent Paterson, interim Vice President of Student Affairs. At the reception, over 70 Illinois State University alumni, current graduate students, faculty, staff, and friends convened to reconnect and network over a 50s Soda Shop theme with ice cream as well as a candy/trail mix station. It was a great evening to share Redbird Pride and a passion for our field.

Thanks to everyone who connected with our faculty, students, and staff during the conference. We enjoyed getting to know you and learning about your experiences while at ISU and where you are now in the field. We hope to see many of you next year during NASPA 2017 in San Antonio, Texas!

Alternative Spring Break

Taking a Chance-1st Year

By: Samia Ahmad

Each week there are announcements in class and there are always volunteer opportunities. Alternative Spring Break was looking for graduate students, staff, and faculty who were willing to give up their spring break to travel with a group of students. As many of us already have assistantships where student interactions are consistent, so why go on a spring break with 40 students for 7 days?

Reason #1: Why Not?

Students who attend ASB Trips come from various majors, organizations they are involved in to different years in school. Interacting with students outside of your assistantship can only strengthen you professionally.

Reason #2: You are a student! Attending an ASB trip does not mean that you are going to be in a disciplinary role. You are there to participant alongside other students during service all week long. Be yourself all week long, share undergrad stories, and have fun. Get to know the students in your group.

ISU's ASB program this year sent out 235 students to work on various social issues. The issues are environmental restoration, at risk youth, homelessness and hunger, affordable housing and environmental conservation. The locations this year were

Memphis, TN; Little Rock, AR; Atlanta ,GA; Duffield, VA and Winder, GA.

I had the pleasure to be a Trip Advisor for the Duffield, VA trip that worked with the Natural Tunnel State Park. My experience was phenomenal on the trip because I had the opportunity to meet and work alongside undergraduates who I would've never met before. I enjoyed having the opportunity to just be a student and not be a staff member for a week.

Randomly during the week we had the chance to explore a cave! But before the cave a group of us went hiking and it was to say the least...deathly and exhausting. I was weary about going to the cave because of those reasons and there were other students who had similar feelings. Of course, this is a once in a lifetime experience! So I encouraged myself and fellow students to join and that we would stick it out. After going through the cave and not dying-it was great to see the group of students who at first weren't interested in going, thankful and hugging one another for pushing them to come.

Overall, it was a great trip, great students, and a great experience to reflect upon as a graduate student.

The Adam Riegle Professional Development Award

By: Elizabeth Keating

April 9th, 2016 marked the second year since beloved CSPA alum, colleague, husband, son, and friend Adam Riegle's passing. Adam, who passed due to a heart condition on April 9th, 2014, is memorialized through the creation of the Adam Riegle Professional Development Award. This scholarship is given to a graduate student in good standing to attend a professional conference, enroll in a class/workshop/ webinar, or purchase educational materials as part of their on-going professional development.

The Educational Administration and Foundations department was honored to have present the Riegle Family at the inaugural Recognition Gala where the The Adam Riegle Professional Development Award was presented to its first ever recipient, second-year student Ronnie Robertson. "It was an honor that I don't take lightly. To have my name attached to somebody like Adam is nothing short of a blessing.

Dr. Len Sutton, EAF Department Chair, and graduate student Ronnie Robertson embrace upon receiving the award

Meeting the Riegle family and hearing the stories about Adam's dedication gave me the inspiration to hopefully make as big an impact on the lives of as many students and people as Adam did." says Robertson.

The Riegle Family

Department Chair Dr. Lenford Sutton paid tribute to Adam's legacy in a moving presentation of Riegle family pictures, including those of his childhood, his time at ISU, and pictures with his wife Brandie Rielge ('08). Currently, the Adam Riegle Professional Development Award is fully funded for six years. Thank you to those donors, your contribution allows us to continue to honor Adam's memory.

If you would like to donate to the "Adam Riegle Professional Development Award" please send a check to Illinois State University and indicate "Riegle Award" in the memo.
